NEW QUESTION: 1

Ann, a security administrator at a call center, has been experiencing problems with users intentionally installing unapproved and occasionally malicious software on their computers. Due to the nature of their jobs, Ann cannot change their permissions. Which of the following would BEST alleviate her concerns?

- A. Create an approved application list and block anything not on it.
- B. Maintain the baseline posture at the highest OS patch level.
- C. Deploy a HIDS suite on the users' computers to prevent application installation.
- D. Enable the pop-up blockers on the users' browsers to prevent malware.

Answer: A

Explanation:

You can use Software Restriction Policy or its successor AppLocker to prevent unauthorized applications from running or being installed on computers.

Software Restriction Policies (SRP) is Group Policy-based feature that identifies software programs running on computers in a domain, and controls the ability of those programs to run. Software restriction policies are part of the Microsoft security and management strategy to assist enterprises in increasing the reliability, integrity, and manageability of their computers.

You can use AppLocker as part of your overall security strategy for the following scenarios:

Help prevent malicious software (malware) and unsupported applications from affecting computers in your environment. Prevent users from installing and using unauthorized applications.

Implement application control policy to satisfy portions of your security policy or compliance requirements in your organization.

Incorrect Answers:

A. A HIDS (Host Intrusion Detection System) cannot prevent software installation on the host. Therefore, this answer is incorrect.

B. Maintaining the baseline posture at the highest OS patch level will not prevent software installation on the host. Therefore, this answer is incorrect.

C. Pop-up blockers on the users' browsers prevent web pages popping up. It will not prevent manual software installation on the host. Therefore, this answer is incorrect.

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation

Subquery1: common table expression (CTE)

A common table expression (CTE) can be thought of as a temporary result set that is defined within the execution scope of a single SELECT, INSERT, UPDATE, DELETE, or CREATE VIEW statement. A CTE is similar to a derived table in that it is not stored as an object and lasts only for the duration of the query. Unlike a derived table, a CTE can be self-referencing and can be referenced multiple times in the same query.

Subquery2: global temporary table

Global temporary tables are visible to any user and any connection after they are created, and are deleted when all users that are referencing the table disconnect from the instance of SQL Server.

Subquery3: local temporary table

Local temporary tables are visible only to their creators during the same connection to an instance of SQL Server as when the tables were first created or referenced. Local temporary tables are deleted after the user disconnects from the instance of SQL Server.
